• Med-Surg Matters Magazine is NOT a clinical journal. For clinical research/manuscript submissions, refer to the journal publication Med-Surg Nursing, and its guidelines, at medsurgnursing.net.

FIRST STEP: SEND A QUERY!

In order to be considered for contributing content to the magazine, please send a short query on your story idea. We do not accept full manuscripts for review. We will review your query and respond to you within two weeks of your query submission. If you have not written for us before, please be sure to attach at least two writing samples along with your query.

All queries should be sent to MSM@AMSN.ORG

As referenced in the ‘overview’ section of this document, Med-Surg Matters Magazine is not a clinical digest/publication, but rather a lifestyle magazine with editorial, interviews, first-person stories, product reviews, events, fun snippets and lists, etc. for med-surg nurses to enjoy in their leisure time. Human interest stories, trends that make nurses lives easier, interviews/profiles on nurses making a difference, stories of inspiration, or articles on emerging leaders and innovators are part of the general theme of the publication.

Brevity is Key
Keep your pitch brief and to the point. You should be able to sum up the subject of your story idea in a paragraph or two. Your query email should not be longer than two paragraphs in total.

Turnaround Time
If your story idea is not yet a fit for the publication, we will let you know within two weeks of your query. If your query is accepted, an editor will reach out to you within two weeks to assign you an article, and will include the word count needed, the edition in which your story is slated for publication, content specifications, suggested sources, and more, as explained on following page.
